

2. Corner cut flash crash

Frontal collision at a junction

The red car flashed his headlights to give way to the green car which was turning right from the road on the right. The black car pulled out in front of the green car.

- Why might the driver of the black car be to blame?
- Why might the driver of the green car be to blame?
- Why might the driver of the red car be to blame?
- Are there any other things that might cause a crash like this to happen?
